Whether you’re young or simply young at heart, a trip to Disney’s Magic Kingdom is an unforgettable experience. Before you plan your trip, consider how you’re going to purchase tickets for your family so there are no surprises when you get to the gate.One-Day Park PassesOne-day park passes allow you access to one Disney park for one day. If you want to visit the Magic Kingdom for a single day, this is the ticket you want to get.You can purchase tickets at the gate on the day of your visit, but this is not the only ticket purchasing option. If you plan to stay on Disney property or visit other parks during your Florida stay, there are other ticket options that allow you access to Magic Kingdom.Park Hopper TicketsPark hopper tickets are Disney tickets that allow you to visit more than one park during the day. If you want to visit a few attractions at Magic Kingdom and view a show at Epcot, for example, you may wish to consider a park hopper pass for each member of your group.This pass adds an additional charge per guest per ticket per day, so take this into consideration when planning your budget. Again, you have multiple options for purchasing these tickets, and can even wait until you get to the park to make a decision.Purchasing Tickets OnlineMany Disney guests prefer to plan their trips months and even years in advance, and can do so online. If you choose to purchase online tickets, you can do so directly through the Disney website. This is particularly helpful if you are booking a hotel on Disney property, or are purchasing a meal package, since you can simply book everything at once.Use a Travel AgentIf you’d prefer to leave the details to someone else, consider using a Disney-certified travel agent. These agents are able to book Magic Kingdom tickets for your entire group, and can sometimes help you find arrangements that aren’t available directly to the public. For your Disney vacation, you may want to call on the assistance of a Disney travel agent who knows the ins and outs of planning a magical trip.Search for DealsOccasionally, you might be able to find discounts on portions of your Disney vacation by purchasing Disney packages that include hotel, meal plans and park tickets. While these deals might not apply to the park tickets themselves (which rarely go on sale), your overall savings on items like meals or reservations may help you save money on your Disney vacation.
